

Alan Macmillan

Managing Director

Career Summary

Beginning his career in fire safety in 1982 by joining Strathclyde Fire & Rescue, Alan moved his way up through the ranks to Group Commander, where he was responsible for the health and safety of all the stations in the former Strathclyde region. He went on to oversee the transition of these 8 separate Service H&S departments into one with the formation of the Scottish Fire Service.

During his career, Alan acquired extensive experience and a far-reaching range of qualifications including from a post graduate Health Safety and Risk management diploma, Fire Protection Association Fire Risk Assessor, and a diploma in Fire Stopping. This combined with various levels of management qualifications from the fire service and a diploma in public service leadership from UWS, demonstrated Alan's commitment to optimising his own capabilities as a member of the Fire Service.

On retiring from the Fire Service in 2013, Alan moved into consultancy, joining Kyle Management Consultants (KMC) in 2018 and became a pivotal part of its success to date, including defining work for Reid Kerr College across the Far East and Middle East regions.

Joining Linear Fire Safety as a Managing Director in 2020, Alan is responsible for managing and supporting the wider Linear team in allocation and delivery of all aspects of the site Fire Management System, including the assessment and audit process, along with the management and development of KMC's existing client base.

Driven by an honest approach to his work, Alan shows unwavering reliability to both clients and colleagues alike.
